Nine-Days of SXSW Panels Programming

Throughout the nine-days of overlapping conferences, professionals in a vast array of creative industries gather to meet, learn, discuss, network, and share tips with each other about how to thrive within a fickle trade. Click on the headings below to go directly to the full panels schedule for that conference.

Conference panels can be as intimate as a one-on-one meeting with a film professional in the Mentor program, or jam-packed with registrants wanting the latest tips and dish from the indie name du jour in one of the popular Interview sessions. In between there are lots of nut-and-bolts sessions on just about any aspect of filmmaking you can imagine. In addition, there is a free panel session at the Carver Center covering some of the basics of filmmaking. Keep an eye (or is that "ear") peeled for podcasts of selected sessions.

Mychal Wilson

Law Partner, MindFusion Law Corporation

In 1996, Mychal Angelo Wilson executive produced and starred in the acclaimed Sundance Film Festival short film entitled "The Spartans." While in search of funds to produce the feature film "The Gristle," Mychal then conceived the idea to approach the United States Small Business Administration(S.B.A.) for film financing. Consequently, Mychal and his former producing partner became the first producers to secure S.B.A. funding for a feature film. The Gristle (in which Mychal stars/produced) currently airs on HBO, Cinemax, Starz! and is distributed on Video/DVD by Warner Home Video. In addition to producing The Gristle. Coupled with legal experience at Miramax and the IFTA, Mychal co-founded the MindFusion Law Corporation.
